Nebraska Poll Said Gaining New Interest

Taft, Ike Write-In Drives Increasing Chance Of Test

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—Republicans, waging a stiff presidential nomination battle in Wisconsin, Thursday stepped up their efforts to make Nebraska also a prime popularity testing ground.

Both states hold primaries next Tuesday to choose GOP and Democratic convention delegates.

Backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio drummed up a write-in campaign in Nebraska they hope can offset his losses in New Hampshire and Minnesota. And supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tried to match the Taft drive.

Two weeks ago the Nebraska primary appeared of little national significance in the Republican picture with only Harold Stassen and Mrs. Mary Kenney, a Lincoln housewife and backer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, entered.

TAFT'S FORCES called in retired Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, a native Nebraskan, to give their campaign a shot in the arm.

Wedemeyer said he considered Taft "the best qualified avowed candidate for the presidency considering the conditions faced by our country today." He said Eisenhower was "an avowed candidate," but not MacArthur.

In the Democratic race, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee returned from Wisconsin to resume his Nebraska campaigning. Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, his April 1 opponent, said in Lincoln Wednesday night he thought "we are gaining on Kefauver."

Jack Bell, Associated Press political writer, wrote from Milwaukee that the Wisconsin outcome could hinge on Democrats who vote the GOP ticket. Voters are handed 10 tickets and given their choice.

Stassen has pledged that he will turn over to Eisenhower half of any of his delegates elected since the general is not on the ballot and write-ins are not permitted. Delegates to the GOP convention of California have promised to support the general if the California governor drops out of the convention race. Warren himself has made no promises except to release his delegates if he fails to make headway.

BELL SAID a strong Eisenhower sentiment among Democrats could benefit both Warren and Stassen. He said Wisconsin politicians thought Warren would get the most good out of such votes even though he has not taken a stand one way or the other about Eisenhower.

Taft, the other GOP candidate in the three-way race, called the Stassen and Warren linkups with Eisenhower "hybrid tickets."

Kefauver remained a long-odds favorite to win the Democratic race against a slate supporting Truman, Bell reported.

The President returns to Washington Thursday evening from his Florida vacation amidst speculation that his choice for Democratic candidate, if he doesn't run himself, is Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

Truman had no comment on a St. Louis Post-Dispatch story saying the President had asked Stevenson to be the administration candidate. The governor would not comment either.

The Chicago Sun-Times went even further. It said Stevenson had "firmly declined" Truman's invitation to seek the nomination. The newspaper said it had learned that "only a full blown convention draft could shake" Stevenson's decision.

12 Airmen Killed In Two Crashes

TUCSON, March 27.—(P)—Twelve military airmen were killed in two plane crashes in the southwest Wednesday. Eight died in the flaming wreckage of a B-29 bomber from Davis-Monthan Air Force Base here and four perished in the crash of a B-47 stratojet bomber from Kirtland AFB on the edge of Albuquerque, N. M.

Both crashes occurred shortly after the planes had taken off from their bases.

Navy Planning Formosa Defense

TOKYO, March 27.—(P)—U. S. Secretary of Navy Dan A. Kimball believes the United States Navy will continue to protect Formosa regardless of what happens in Korea, a Navy spokesman reports.

On June 27, 1950, the President ordered the Seventh Fleet to prevent any attack on Formosa and called on the Chinese Nationalist government on the island to cease all air and sea operations against the China mainland.

Senate Panel Vote Causes Debate

Move To Extend Controls Brings Rumble In Congress

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—When the Senate Banking Committee Wednesday approved extension of wage, price and other controls for another year, it hoisted new storm signals in Congress.

Angry comments about the proposed steel workers' pay boost, intended to avert a crippling strike, whipped up some opposition. Meanwhile, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) is pushing to get the Senate Banking Committee's extension bill on the Senate floor.

But progress was suspended until next week after Office of Price Stabilization officials entered a hurried protest on tentative Senate committee actions.

One was a vote to make the Herlong amendment which last year assured retailers and wholesalers of historic profit percentages, or margins, on price ceilings fixed "hereafter."

President Truman and price control officials have been pushing for repeal of the Herlong amendment, saying it is inflationary. An attempt to kill it was beaten 10 to 3 in the Senate committee.

THEN THE group voted to strike out the "hereafter." OPS officials said that would reopen thousands of price ceilings fixed prior to last August when the Herlong amendment began to operate.

Failure to kill the Herlong amendment and broadening its application is regarded as a blow to the administration.

Rent controls in Chicago and other large cities survived by a 7-6 vote in the Senate committee.

Sen. Dirksen (R-ILL) moved to limit the rent control extension to strictly critical defense areas. This failed.

Sen. Moody (D-MICH) said Dirksen's move would have killed federal rent controls in most large cities, except New York City which is covered by a state law. Most urban centers do not qualify as critical defense areas.

President Truman had asked a two year extension of the entire controls program, but the Senate group accepted, without a record vote, the one-year extension proposed by Maybank.

Truman also had asked outright repeal of a section that now bans imports of foreign cheese, butter and dairy products. The committee did this but promptly substituted a World War II imports ban which Maybank said was more liberal and should please the President.

Still intact was the Capehart amendment which Truman has called "terrible." Inserted last year, this amendment directs officials fixing prices for manufacturers and processors to consider all post-Korea cost increases such as wage and tax boosts prior to last July 26.

'Rightdoers' In Government Deserve Break

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—The American press has been asked to help keep "rightdoers" in government from being smeared by attacks on wrongdoers.

"Let's watch our aim," Robert Ramspeck, U. S. Civil Service chief, told the National Press club. "And let's hang a medal as quickly as we'd hang a culprit. There's room for both—even in an election year."

Ramspeck said criticism of government workers should be specific, not general, so that public faith in the American form of government is not weakened. This, he said, is a "major responsibility" of the press.

"For the sake of the 'wisecrack' and the gibberish with which certain phrases roll off the tongue or out of the typewriter, we must not shrink a word to tell both sides of the story," he added.

Ramspeck attempted to tear down what he called "myths" about government workers. He said it is not true that an employee once on the federal payroll never leaves it—400,492 persons voluntarily quit government jobs during 1951.

And it isn't true, Ramspeck said, that no one is ever fired—23,978 workers were discharged last year.

Five Veteran Lawyers Feted By Colleagues

Pickaway County Bar Association Wednesday honored five local attorneys who have practiced law more than 50 years.

Honored during a special dinner meeting in Wardell Party Home were Charles May, F. N. R. Redfern, C. A. Leist, Meeker Terwilliger and George H. Adkins.

Leist was the oldest in experience among the honored lawyers, having practiced law for a period of 59 years.

May was honored for having practiced law 57 years, Terwilliger has practiced law 52 years and Redfern and Adkins both have practiced law 50 years each.

Each of the prominent local lawyers were presented with an engraved cane by the local bar association.

Mobilizer Seeking Plan To Stall Off Steel Strike

She's Got A $860 Jigsaw Puzzle

CHICAGO, March 27.—(P)—Mrs. Anna Mae Keys of Marion, O., has quite a jigsaw puzzle on her hands.

Eula Mae McGlothlin, 10-year-old Chicago school girl, found $840 Wednesday. She decided to share her wealth with her classmates. They all thought the bills were mere "play money." So they tore up the money and threw all but a single $100 bill in waste-paper baskets. The money belonged to Mrs. Keys, who is visiting the McGlothlins.

UN Openly Seeks POW Compromise

Definition Of 'UN' Bringing Exchange Between Negotiators

MUNSAN, March 27.—(P)—Korean truce negotiators Thursday swapped detailed explanations of how they want to exchange prisoners of war as the United Nations openly sought a compromise.

An official Allied spokesman said "neither optimism nor pessimism is justified" at this point in the secret sessions.

In a nearby tent Communist tempers flared in a dispute over whether the UN Command represents the Korean people.

Col. Don O. Darrow inadvertently triggered the outburst while discussing a Korean translation of United Nations.

Darrow told the Communists they had no right to haggle over the point since "you seem to forget that I represent the Korean people also—those allied with the United Nations."

"AMERICANS cannot represent the Korean people," North Korean Col. Chang Chun San retorted angrily.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, official UN spokesman, said the translation dispute has been regarded as a mere technicality, but it "is taking on some significance."

The Communists want the UN Command to be known in Korea as "Allied Forces." The UN prefers "International Allied Forces." One of these is about as close as you can come in Korean to United Nations.

Nuckolls said both Allied and Communist staff officers working on prisoner exchange made "extensive statements which are apparently well-considered views."

He declined to comment on what the views are and the extent of their divergency, if any.

'Billy' Goat In Show, But Is Expecting

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—(P)—Brunhilde, a white goat, is on stage again. But impending motherhood has the cast a bit worried.

Nightly Brunhilde appears twice at the Curran Theater in Tennessee Williams' "Rose Tattoo." Each time she's chased. And that's a bit strenuous, you know.

Previously Brunhilde appeared here in "Mr. Roberts." But her casting was cut short. She gave births to twins.

"Tattoo's" publicity director, Ned Armstrong, heard about Brunhilde's appearance in "Mr. Roberts" and, without checking her sex, hired her from the owner, Margaret P. Dean.

"They gave me strict orders in New York to get a Billy goat," Armstrong worried.

"We close here April 5. If she can only hold out until then."

Why won't any other goat do? Brunhilde is reported to be the only pure white goat in the area.

FBI Still Hunting Danvers Robbers

DANVERS, Mass., March 27.—(P)—FBI agents are rounding up all former employees of the U. S. Trucking Corp., one of whose armored trucks was robbed of $681,000 in Danvers Square Tuesday while its three guards sipped coffee about 20 feet away.

A source close to the investigation, asking that his name not be used, said he believes the FBI hopes to determine if one of the former employees kept a key to the truck when he left the employ of the armored car service or divulged how a key could be obtained.

High Officials Holding Talks With Wilson

Walkout Scheduled For April 8; Wage Hike Is Demanded

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson dropped plans Thursday for a top level parley of government officials concerned with the threat of a steel strike April 8.

Instead, he talked separately with the various price and wage control executives and ruled out any immediate announcement of what he may do next to head off a strike.

Wilson has declared the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board, proposing a 17½-cent hourly pay increase and other benefits for the CIO steelworkers, are inflationary and too high. This statement stirred up wrathful retorts from CIO President Philip Murray and the union declared that if the steel industry doesn't accept the WSB recommendations, the responsibility for a serious strike will be on the companies.

WILSON TALKED for 20 minutes Thursday morning with Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam in Westchester Apartments, where they both live. Then he had a talk in his own office with Nathan P. Feinsinger, WSB chairman who has upheld his board's recommendations as uninflationary and justified. Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall was listed for a later, separate talk.

A spokesman for Wilson's Office of Defense Mobilization refused to confirm or deny that he plans to keep hands off the steel wage dispute for the present in hopes of progress in union-management negotiations which started Wednesday in Pittsburgh, and resumed Thursday.

The situation was such that it even appeared possible that, with President Truman due back from his Florida vacation late Thursday, someone in the mobilization hierarchy may quit soon.

One thing appeared certain: The CIO Steelworkers Union, headed by Philip Murray, will get nowhere in negotiations with steel firms until the administration makes up its mind. The companies said they'll need price boosts of $12-a-ton if they grant the WSB-recommended terms.

Bargaining talks between Murray's union and U. S. Steel Corp. and Jones & Laughlin Steel began Wednesday in Pittsburgh, but nothing was accomplished. Both sides looked to Washington for guidance.

THE REAL task was two-fold: To answer the questions 1—Whether Feinsinger's WSB overstepped itself in its suggested solution, and 2—Assuming wages are boosted, whether steel profits require any price boost to keep them in the black.

The steel industry was known to doubt whether it should saddle itself with higher wage rates and higher prices for the future, with a new and vastly growing aluminum industry in the offing. In other words, a real factor in the background of the situation was Big Steel's estimate of its own future.

Wilson's fears were based not on steel, but on possible effects to the economy generally.

John L. Lewis is waiting to see what Murray does in steel before trying to drive a new wage bargain for coal miners. In short, a new wage pattern is in the making, Wilson feels.

Back of that, if steel firms raise prices, a whole host of other industries will be breaking down the doors for higher prices, too. In other words, Wilson's group fears a new burst of inflation.

Feinsinger has said the WSB's proposed boosts for steelworkers are not only fair but "uninflationary." He contends other workers and unions have done as well as Murray's steelworkers, and Murray now is merely "catching up."

Farm Bureau Asking Sharp Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON, March 27.—(P)—The American Farm Bureau Federation again has recommended substantial cuts in Agriculture Department funds.

This was disclosed Thursday in testimony of Allen B. Kline, its president before the House Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee.

Rep. Whitten (D-Miss), chairman of the subcommittee, didn't like the idea. He told Kline: "It is disturbing to me to see the head of the great Farm Bureau organization come in here this year as he did last year and recommend, with only two exceptions, curtailment of programs so vital in my judgment to the welfare of the nation."

Kline, advocating a balancing of the budget, called for all possible reduction in federal expenditures in this emergency including cuts for agriculture "which directly affect us."

The bureau president proposed increases in appropriations of $4.3 million for research; $4 million for the extension service and an "adequate" meat inspection service, but urged heavy slashes elsewhere.

He proposed that the agriculture conservation program be axed from $256 million down to $100 million in 1953, that the soil conservation service be trimmed 20 per cent of $12.3 million, that the forest service be reduced $4 million, agricultural production program be cut $9 million and the Farmers Home Administration be trimmed 20 per cent or $5.6 million.

Judge Ponders Aid To Black Sheep Brother

NEW YORK, March 27.—(P)—Did one loyal brother go to prison to help his "black sheep" brother? That is the question Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard must decide after hearing this story from Attorney Benjamin Schmier.

Anthony Pisciotto, 28, was "the black sheep of the family." He was always looking for an "easy way to make an easy dollar."

One day, Anthony asked his brother, Rosario, to deliver a package. The easy-going brother took the package—and was arrested. It contained narcotics.

Anthony also was arrested—and for him it wasn't the first time. Rosario shouted his innocence and a lawyer told Rosario the judge probably would give him six months at the most.

So both brothers pleaded guilty to peddling narcotics. Anthony got nine years. Rosario got seven.

Rosario wrote Judge Goddard from prison, saying he was innocent. The case was turned over to the Legal Aid Society and Schmier was assigned.

"I received a letter from Anthony," Schmier told the judge. "He said his conscience bothered him so much he couldn't sleep nights and he swore his brother was innocent."

C Of C Gives Good Friday Closing Hours

Cincinnati retail stores are to close from noon until 3 p. m. on Good Friday so local employees may attend worship services.

The closing was established by Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce during a meeting this week.

Chamber members recommended the closing so their workers might attend special Good Friday services in the church of their choice.

In addition to the store-closing move, the Chamber made two donations, discussed the parking meter enforcement program and named a committee for the ensuing year.

THE CHAMBER announced a $100 donation to the Cincinnati high school marching band uniform fund, plus a $25 donation to the American Red Cross.

Following that, local merchants gave a tentative stamp of approval for the strict parking meter enforcement program conducted by the city.

The Chamber said the enforcement program was easing the parking situation somewhat in the downtown area, but at the same time recommended that free 15-minute parking be allowed on adjacent streets.

Members said they believed the parking problem might be aided further if low-revenue producing meters on Franklin street have a 15-minute parking leeway for shoppers.

Committees named for the coming year during the session were:

Retail committee—George Fuhrman, Don Henkle, James Yost, Joe Burns, Ned Plunk, Harold McCullen, James Zickfoos and John Magill.

Grain inspection—Mack Parrett, Membership—Roscoe Warren.

Natives Like Court Sport

ROME — A backward Mexican village has discovered basketball and with it more modern methods of community life.

Emile Tejada, UN Food and Agriculture Organization expert, told the story here. When he and his staff arrived in the almost inaccessible Mexican village of Cucuchuco the people ran and hid, he said.

Gradually the inhabitants became more confident. But the period of friendliness and co-operation really began after the discovery that the villagers liked basketball. The success of working together to build a basketball court inspired the villagers to take up other community projects.

City's Power Is Shut Off By Walkout

PERU, Ind., March 27 — A city official asked for protection of National Guardsmen Thursday in a utility workers' strike that cut off electricity to 7,300 customers in Peru and Miami County.

Russell Wildman, city attorney urged Gov. Henry F. Schricker to send guardsmen in by night, since a virtually complete blackout is expected to continue.

But in Indianapolis, the governor's secretary, Arthur Campbell, said guardsmen would be sent in "only as a last resort."

An emergency hookup with the lines of Northern Indiana Public Service Co., provided a trickle of current into the city. It was enough to supply two hospitals, two small factories and a few homes on those lines. Four supervisors kept the emergency current going through.

Mayor S. G. Cox said his life had been threatened and he predicted the blackout will cost a million dollars in losses in this area.

William Bennett, Indiana representative of the AFL Municipal Employees Union said "the men want a statement of policy before they go back to work." Holiday pay is the main demand.

Neighboring towns losing electric service in the plant shutdown are Erie, Peru, Mexico, New Waverly, Need, Miami, Loree, Wawpicon, Santa Fe and McGrawsville. Peru has 13,000 residents.

Surrender Stone Being Watched

LUENBURG HEATH, Germany.—Four East German refugees guard a heavy granite stone that marks the spot where German Admiral Friedeburg surrendered to British Field Marshal Montgomery May 4, 1945, at the close of World War II.

The guards, all over 50, stand watch in six-hour shifts, at the site, located on top of a lonely hill. Originally, wooden markers were erected, but these were stolen from time to time, possibly by Germans who resented a reminder to their defeat.

Some 10,000 persons a year visit "Victory Hill." Many of them take pictures of the stone.

ROCHESTER, Ind.—Every Monday, Mayor Robert W. Shafer hangs the city's civic line on the line and invites the citizens in. What's washday to housewives is "Squawk Day" to Mayor Shafer.

Anthrax Probe Law Is 'Weak'

The Indiana Livestock Sanitary Board, said the measures were approved Wednesday at a special meeting of the board and representatives of the Indiana Board of Health and the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Elrod said investigations indicate the disease, a bacterial infection, is being spread through certain feed ingredients of animal origin. The board approved these resolutions:

1. That all foreign imported and domestic bone meal, tankage and meat scraps originating outside the state be prevented from entering the state. It is provided, however, that this embargo shall not apply to bone meal, tankage and meat scraps produced in an sold by establishments operating under supervision of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

2. THAT ALL bone meal, tankage and meat scraps now on hand in every grain elevator or feed mill in Indiana, which have been delivered since Jan. 1, be reprocessed at 60 pounds steam pressure for a minimum of three and one-half hours before sale or distribution.

3. Humans Made In Test Tube Said Possible

NEW YORK, March 27.—The day may be coming when human beings will be made to order with test tubes and women who are not their mothers.

This prediction was made Thursday by Dr. Ralph W. Gerard, professor of physiology, University of Chicago, at a "Conference on the Future" held by executives of Mutual Fire and Casualty Insurance Companies.

The new breeding method already is used on animals. Selected human parents, doing the same, would give their eggs and sperm to a scientific laboratory. There, conception would take place in a test tube. The fertilized egg would be planted in a foster mother and, according to the facts already discovered with animals, the child would truly inherit the qualities of its test tube parents.

The first human step already has been taken in artificial insemination, but Dr. Gerard predicted it would be a long time before we have many made-to-order humans. He said we may not want to, because they will be monotonously alike. Or they may create castes.

He predicted new hearts, by transplantation, and new kidneys similarly. He said the secret of aging would be discovered and used for man's benefit.

WASHINGTON, March 27 — (AP)—For seven years since World War II Russia has lain like a great animal across the frontiers of Europe, watching the West, waiting for it to become easy pickings.

For a while that seemed the bright thing to do. The nations of Western Europe, torn by ancient antagonisms, staggered close to disaster. Then, with American help, they began to cooperate.

They grew stronger step by halting step. And Russia, watching this intended victim develop muscles, always reacted the same way: It growled, protested, threatened, tried wrecking tactics.

The Marshall Plan, aid for Greece and Turkey, the Atlantic Pact—Russia couldn't stop them. But in one place, Germany, it seemed to feel snug. It occupied Eastern Germany. The western part was held by the West.

THE WESTERN Allies tried to persuade Russia to agree to a peace treaty covering all Germany. No good. The longer it held Eastern Germany the more time it had to train German Communist stooges.

Some day, maybe, they could take over all Germany and make it a servant, work shop and satellite of Russia. The West decided not to wait forever. It let the West Germans form their own government. The Russians screamed, for an anti-Communist West Germany, organized under its own government, would be a potent block against East German Communists taking over both zones of Germany.

This unified army, which would put Western Germany into a military alliance with the rest of Western Europe, was the last thing the Russians wanted and once again they reacted.

On March 10 they made a proposal to the U. S., Britain and France which the three rejected this week. The Russian proposal and the Allied answers went like this:

1. Russia suggested she and the Allies get together and work out a peace treaty for a united Germany. The Russians failed to say how Germany should be unified.

The Allies agreed to a unified Germany but only as a result of free elections in all Germany, including the Russian zone, supervised by the United Nations.

2. Russia suggested this new, united Germany should be free to build up a military machine of its own and that it be forbidden to enter into any military alliances with

Martin Dies Hits Truman Policies

CINCINNATI, March 27 — (AP)—Martin Dies, former congressman from Texas, said here Wednesday that the Truman administration and its predecessor were responsible for the "present menace of Russia."

"And now they are asking us to trust them to save us from the predicament they got us into," Dies asserted. Dies, who inaugurated the House Un-American Activities Committee, claimed he was not as fearful of Communism from within as he was of some of the recommendations of President Truman and his advisers.

Racketeers Pour Into Tax Offices

CLEVELAND, March 27 — (AP)—Federal tax men are putting the bite on 500 racketeers in the Cleveland district to the tune of $1½ million.

"And the end of the drive is not yet in sight," said Richard O'Hanlon, who heads the campaign in five states. He estimated 1,500 more cases against gamblers and other criminals have not yet been settled in the office here. The crackdown is having its effect. Hoodlums big and small from all parts of the 22-county district are making calls at the internal revenue offices here, tax men say.

Family 'Enemies' Told By Bishop

COLUMBUS, March 27 — (AP)—"Divorce, birth control, free love and three room apartments" are the main enemies of the family, a Roman Catholic bishop said here Wednesday night.

Bishop John K. Mussio of Steubenville condemned un-Christian "gadflies of easy living" at a Family Hour service that concluded the National Catholic Family Life Conference here. He said the Christian family is "the best expression of that true freedom which alone gives America her role of greatness in the destiny of man."

Korean Peace May Produce Odd Upsets

Nation's Economy
Slated For Change
When Truce Comes

NEW YORK, March 27 — (P)—Truce in Korea—that perennial possibility—once loomed as an economy-wrecker in the eyes of some observers. That belief is well discounted in advance now by business and industry.

But doubtless, if it comes, it still will send psychological ripples through the already troubled American economy—first off, through the stock and commodity exchanges, always sensitive to supposed changes in policy or course. And, conceivably, these ripples could grow into waves.

The interminable gabbing at Panmunjom has worked the economy into a situation where the dollar-and-cents effects of a truce would depend pretty much on how people take it—just another milestone in the seemingly endless Cold War, or a real letdown in defense effort.

And the public has been taught that the defense effort is a chief mainstay in an economy rather dubiously balanced just now between inflation and depression. Times have changed since the truce talks started last July.

THOSE WHO believe the truce would lead to a defense letdown and a business slump fear these possibilities:

A truce could make consumers even more reluctant to buy. They are bargain hunters. Some businessmen fear customers will stop home entirely, waiting for a collapse in prices.

Stock traders might abandon the war babies — industries profiting from rearmament. They might woo again the peace babies—industries hard hit when materials are earmarked for armament.

They might even fear that declining defense spending would send the heavy industries on the downward path that textiles has trod.

Commodity prices, already weakened, might feel the depressing touch of a truce. War has a heartier appetite than peace.

Store buyers and factory purchasing agents, already playing it close, might put off future orders. Congress, looking for a place to whittle the budget, might regard the truce as an invitation to carve on the fat of military appropriations, and foreign aid.

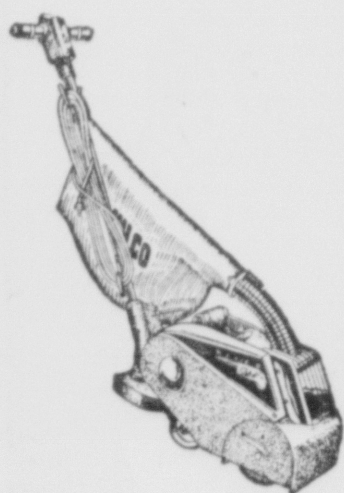

And the pressure to free the economy of controls on prices and materials would take on a load of fresh steam with the first whisper of peace in Korea.

Against all these possibilities must be stacked two facts: billions appropriated for defense have yet to be spent; and the inflated and vulnerable economy of last summer—when the truce first was proposed—has started back to normal size. A Korean truce hasn't the jolting potential it once had. The danger now is that even a small jar might upset the economy.

Casualties Listed

WASHINGTON, March 27—(P)—U. S. battle casualties in Korea have reached 106,794, an increase of 23 since last week. This was the smallest weekly rise since the start of the Korean fighting.

Steel Not Setting Pattern, Is Claim

CLEVELAND, March 27 — (P)—A Wage Stabilization Board official says the proposed pay hike for steel workers is following a pattern "a ready in effect, not setting one."

"The auto, rubber and electrical workers to mention a few, have won their increases," WSB Vice-Chairman Frederick H. Bullen declared here Wednesday. "Steel is only catching up with them."

Moreover, Bullen said at the Association of Industries' annual meeting, the pay hike the WSB recommended for steel workers is smaller than those already granted by other major industries.

Two tree farms will be recognized at this Forestry Field Day by the Ohio Forestry Association. Those to be added to the list are the D. Hayden Evans tree farm and the Carpenter tree farm.

Importance of the forestry industry to Ohio warrants a special invitation to the public to attend this Forestry Field Day.

Fossil oysters 30 inches in diameter have been found along the lower Rio Grande valley.

Maple Festival To Lack Syrup

CHARDON, March 27—(P)—There is apt to be a shortage of maple syrup, of all things, at the Geauga County Maple Festival which opens here Friday.

Snow fell here Wednesday and unless the weather bureau's forecast of continued cold is wrong the latecomers probably will be disappointed. It takes alternating warm and cool weather to make the maple sap run. Only 1,800 gallons of syrup have been produced. The festival association had planned on 2,500 gallons.

DON'T RUN FROM BOMBS

IT HAS BEEN the general opinion that in case of war with Russia, which would bring bombing attacks, cities which have large munitions plants would be the first to be attacked. Those which are entirely non-industrial would be in less danger. Barrett Landstreet, chief of evacuation planning for the Civil Defense Administration, says no part of the nation is secure from Russian bombs, once war comes.

It would be the policy of the enemy, he believes, to stage what he calls wide attacks in order to distract the people from significant military moves. The result would be that people everywhere would start moving, in an effort to find safer localities. And that is where evacuation authority would meet its real problem.

It was brought out at the recent meeting of evacuation officials that the nation's highways are inadequate to handle even normal traffic. To put thousands of cars on the move, being driven by excited and scared citizens, would bring a traffic congestion which would simply paralyze the nation.

The safest thing to do, under such circumstances, would be to stay where you are, knowing you are in no more danger there than elsewhere. Panic is the very thing the enemy would be hoping for. This situation may never develop, but if it does don't take to the highway. Don't run from the bombs.

LITTLE DUTCH BOY

DO THE SCHOOL children of today still read the old tale about the little Dutch boy who put his finger in the dike and saved his country from inundation? We hope so. Heroism is never out of date. In fact, we wouldn't mind reading the story again ourselves.

What reminded us of it was a news story about an Australian youth who also stuck his finger into something. (That's a practice which hasn't gone out of date, either). The something in his case was the intake of an artificial milking machine.

The machine didn't know one finger from an udder, and it kept right on trying to suck milk out of a digit for 10 hours before anyone came to the rescue.

It might not be wise to start reading him the story of the little Dutch boy.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

When Owen Lattimore issued his 17,500-word diatribe against Congress and the world, many newspapers published huge parts of it. Senator McCarran's reply, to which all the members of his committee subscribed, was, in my judgment, insufficiently noted.

It would seem that Senator McCarran's formal charges, part of the record of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, places upon the Attorney General the obligation to examine the record and to initiate actions under the law.

Senator McCarran said:
"—The committee was confronted with an initial fusillade of invective, and a consistently evasive, contentious, and belligerent attitude.

"Suggestions have been made that the committee should seek to discipline Mr. Lattimore for his contemptuous and contemptuous conduct. Clearly, Mr. Lattimore did, on many occasions, stand in contempt of the committee—"

As regards Lattimore's memory, Senator McCarran stated:

"Mr. Lattimore has testified to having a type of memory with which the committee is quite familiar. With respect to some matters, he has demonstrated that his memory is extremely good. But he has testified that his memory was unreliable with respect to matters which ordinary men might be expected to remember most clearly.

Very few men forget about their visits to the President of the United States, if the number of such visits is small. But Mr. Lattimore, who said he saw President Truman just once, wanted this committee to believe he had forgotten the incident when he testified before the Tydings Committee with respect to his influence on Foreign Policy.

"Mr. Lattimore also has testified before this committee that all during that prior Senate investigation he forgot the fact that he had a desk in the State Department Building for 'four, five, or six' months during the last war.

"The precise extent to which Mr. Lattimore gave untruthful testimony before this committee will never be determined. Human limitations will prevent us from ever attaining the complete knowledge of all his activities which would make it possible to assess each statement he has made and to catalogue fully whatever untruths he may have uttered. That he has uttered untruths stands clear on the record—"

Senator McCarran then proceeded to report in detail a number of untruths which appear in the testimony. As I am now engaged in reading the whole of the transcript of this hearing I seem to have found some that Senator McCarran missed—contradictions, tricks of memory, etc. Of course, none of us can be sure of memories, but the subject matter with which the committee concerns itself relates directly to the fields in which Lattimore is a reputed expert. In such fields, it is expected that his memory will serve.

LAFF-A-DAY

DIET AND HEALTH

The Care of Children's Teeth Should Start At An Early Age

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

DECAYED teeth are high on the list of our most widespread and difficult health problems. Decay also strikes in early youth, and thus lays a heavy responsibility upon parents.

Who would guess, if asked, that no less than 98 per cent of this country's boys and girls have decayed teeth? Even among our two-year-olds, over 50 per cent already have one or more decayed teeth. The average five-year-old has at least six teeth in some stage of decay. By the time a child is 16 years old, he has at least seven decayed, filled, or missing teeth.

Ideas Changing

What can we do to keep our children from having cavities? Ideas on dental health are changing even now, and methods must sometimes be adapted to individual cases. But, in general, here are the rules to follow:

The teeth should be brushed within ten minutes after each meal, for at least three minutes at a time.

The right way to brush is away from the gum. Brush the chewing surfaces first. Then brush the lower teeth up from the gum, and the upper teeth down from the gum; both on the inside and outside surfaces. It is especially important to get the bristles in between the teeth.

Right Diet Vital

To cut down the number of cavities, the right diet is vital. Children should be given:

Fluoride in Water

Certain communities have cut down the number of children's cavities by adding a small amount of fluoride to the public water system.

If your community does not have this type of drinking water, the dentist may want to apply the fluoride to your child's teeth. This treatment seems to work only with children up to about 15 years of age. The fluoride is usually applied at the ages of three, seven, ten and 13, and it has been found that this helps reduce tooth decay as much as 40 per cent.

Good teeth are necessary for good health, so take your children to the dentist early and regularly.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. D.: Is it necessary to mix concentrated fruit juices with distilled water?

Answer: Concentrated juices may be mixed with regular tap water with safety.

Try, Stop Me

A Hollywood group recently tried out a three-act comedy that was billed as "on its way to a triumphant Broadway production." The producers' dreams faded, however, when Critic Sid Skolsky predicted in print, "If the author heard what the audience was saying as it emerged from the theater, he'll run three days longer than his show."

In Philadelphia, Mae West refused to be tempted by a salesman brandishing several best sellers. "Reading" is just too much bother for me," she explained. "I've got to take off my false eyelashes to put on my glasses." Always something for a bookseller to fret about!

In Decatur, the Morning Herald has been presented with a wooden bowl from which George Washington reputedly ate bread soaked in milk. Commemorative placard suggested by Editorial Writer Dave Felts: "George Washington slumped here."

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

OUTSIDE Kaiming's office, the sledge hammers were smashing the thick door from its hinges. Laddell had his hands full with the squirming, scratching fury he was trying to tame. Suddenly, he brought his fist up, felt it connect with her jaw with paralyzing force. Fah So's body went limp.

Laddell got up, brushed himself off, looked down at the unconscious form. "I apologize, baby. I'm no gentleman." He felt for the slight wound in his shoulder. "No gentleman would think of hitting a lady without first taking off his hat."

There was a gasping for breath behind him. Kaiming sat in the chair, a film forming over his eyes, a glass in his hand. A slight dribble of saliva showed at the corners of his mouth, ran down his chin. The glass slipped through his fingers, smashed on the floor.

"Your drink, Laddell," he gasped. "I hope you don't mind—my drinking your drink."

His jaw sagged, his arm fell to his side. His eyes were still open, but the film over them had become opaque.

The glass of the door finally gave way and a wave of plain clothes men poured in. Byers, the Treasury department man, walked over to Laddell. "You okay, Johnny?"

Laddell nodded, indicated the scratch on his shoulder. "She was right. They do have to hire white gunmen who can shoot straight." Byers took a look at the wound, seemed satisfied. "You were right, too. We've got enough on Kaiming to hang him."

Laddell pointed to Kaiming. "You're too late. He's dead." He indicated the unconscious girl. "Here was his real boss, though. NKVD Chinese style. Sent here to supervise his activities. He started out shaking the local Chinese for ransom. She was the one that added the espionage to the agenda."

Eyers nodded. "You know this all the time?"

"Heck no," Laddell groaned. "It added up when I sat down and checked back. Where I made my mistake was adding apples and oranges. All you get that way is fruit salad. When I got around to adding just a p's, everything cleared up. Everything that I had that pointed to Goldy pointed to Kaiming as well. So, if it wasn't Goldy it had to be Kaiming." He shrugged. "Just like that."

"You did a nice job, Laddell," Byers told him. "We can clean up around here. No need of you hanging around if you've got anything else to do."

"Meaning?"

Eyers grinned. "I tipped off that blonde newshawk gal of yours that you might be having a story for her. I think she's probably waiting for you at her place."

Jim Kiely was sitting on the terrace with Muggsy when Johnny Laddell walked in. He grinned at Laddell. "Hear you've been giving the Federal boys a bad time, Johnny." He made room on the settee for Laddell, didn't seem perturbed when the detective elected to perch on the arm of Muggsy's chair. "What's this I hear about you almost snatching their smashing of the spy ring?"

Laddell groaned. "Muggs been talking? Why don't you run that story in that rag of yours so I can sue you for libel?"

"And lose me my job?" Muggsy pouted.

"Why not?" Laddell nodded. "No wife of mine is going to work."

Muggsy shook her head positively. "And no husband of mine is going to be a second string shooting gallery. If I give up my job, you've got to give up yours." She dropped her eyes. You're probably washed up now anyhow."

"Maybe," Laddell conceded. "Although Byers didn't seem to think so when I gave him Kaiming with practically a confession. In fact, he sounded downright grateful."

Muggsy looked up, her jaw hanging. "Kaiming? What's he got to do with it?"

Laddell reached over, clasped her hand. "What's Kaiming got to do with it, she asks! He had everything to do with it. He was head of the ring." He snapped his fingers. "Say, I did forget to mention that to you, didn't I?"

Jim Kiely jumped up from the couch. He grabbed a phone, started dialing. "You got the whole story, Johnny?"

"Sure I got the whole story," Laddell grinned. "I had it all along. Only trouble was I was looking at it from the wrong angle. Once I got my sights adjusted, everything fell in line."

Jim Kiely was barking orders into the telephone. He put the receiver down, grabbed Laddell by the arm. "Never mind telling us about it. Start talking into that," he pointed to the phone.

Laddell grinned, shrugged. "Okay." He picked up the phone. "Rewrite?" The receiver barked assent. "Just slug this with Ronny Kiely's by-line." He leaned back, got comfortable, started dictating. After about fifteen minutes, he hung the receiver up, rubbed his ear.

"What a yarn!" Jim Kiely exclaimed. "I should have known you'd come out on top. Like I told Muggs..."

Muggsy came in from the kitchen with a half carcass of chicken. Solemnly, she sat cross legged on the settee, gnawed at the bones.

"I'm sorry we have no crow in the house, Johnny. This'll have to do."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind

the news

By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON, March 27—An odd but significant feature of the presidential races in both major parties is that they find the so-called "federal" politicians arrayed against the "state house" clique—senators versus the governors.

It is not an entirely new or surprising development. It is only natural for members of Congress to feel that the House and Senate provide the finest finishing school for White House matriculation. Similarly, state executives believe that their greater familiarity with practical problems of government equip them for the nation's highest office.

The controversy has been aired in acute form in the GOP pre-convention strife. When a Taft speaker questioned whether military service fitted a man (Eisenhower) for the presidency, an "Ike" admirer countered that the Senate had not been such a successful proving ground for promotion.

The reference, obviously, was to Warren Gammell Harding and Harry S. Truman.

STRENGTH — General Eisenhower has the backing of numerous members of Congress, especially since his New Hampshire-Innesota opening. But his original promoters hailed from the "political sticks."

The "big five" in his camp are now Governors Dewey of New York and Driscoll of New Jersey, and such former governors as Duff of Pennsylvania, Carlton of Massachusetts and Salton of Kansas. If they can control their delegations to the Republican convention, Eisenhower will have a solid bloc of more than 200 votes on the first ballot, not to mention his support from other sections.

Although a few state executives, such as Governor J. Bracken Lee of Utah, prefer Senator Taft, his main strength consists of Congressional colleagues — Senators Millikin of Colorado and Brewster of Maine, Representatives Brown of Ohio, Halleck of Indiana, the Illinois delegation and ex-Representative Reece of Tennessee, southern campaign manager.

ADVANTAGE — As the New Hampshire primary results demonstrated, a candidate backed by the state machine has a tremendous advantage. Governor Driscoll's unexpected, pre-primary endorsement of "Ike" immediately forced Taft to withdraw from the New Jersey test.

Thus, if Eisenhower wins the nomination and election, he will be more indebted to local political interests than to the Capitol Hill faction.

This factor can, and probably will, have considerable influence on Eisenhower, if he reaches the White House. Likewise, it would affect the policies of any other candidate nominated and elected under gubernatorial auspices—Governor Stevenson of Illinois, and ex-Governor Russell of Georgia, now a Senator and the anti-Truman South's entry.

RECOGNITION — A President

so sponsored and supported, for instance, might feel obliged to name one of these governors or former governors to the Cabinet for a major diplomatic post. It is known that several Eisenhower promoters—Dewey, Duff, Lodge—would not object to such recognition.

More importantly, a chief executive in debt to the state house rather than the Capitol Hill crowd would be in a position to revise the present lopsided relationship between the federal government and the 48 commonwealths.

That would be especially true, if the next national leader should be Eisenhower. Stevenson or Russell, ironically, Taft is an exponent of the same sort of philosophy.

DIVISION — As financially harassed state administrators, all of these non-Washington presidential possibilities would undoubtedly advocate federal aid to health, education, housing etc. But, unlike Roosevelt and Truman, they would probably counsel that all questions of execution and policy be left to the states.

This school of thought would also apply to the controversial and still unresolved issue of civil rights. In short, the election of a president on the basis of state house support might result in a better and more constitutional balance in all business involving our dual form of government.

Although Governor Stevenson seems to be Truman's selection, largely because nobody else suits the White House occupant, the Illinoisian is also the favorite of many Democratic governors, and ex-governors. He would also be a popular Congressional choice, if the White House insists on him.

BACKING — Although a "fair dealer" in many respects, Stevenson recognizes the danger of continued federal encroachment on the states. He expressed this fear at last fall's governors' conference at Gatlinburg, Tenn.

Senator Russell, an ex-governor himself, was persuaded to enter the race by Governor James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, and ex-Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. He has the backing of all save two southern state executives. There is no need to expand on their viewpoint on federal-state relationships.

Neither Senators Kefauver of Tennessee or Kerr of Oklahoma have organized support of any kind, federal or gubernatorial. They are self-starters. Despite discreet equivocation for campaign purposes, both lean toward the states' rights philosophy.

BALANCE — Thus, this unpublicized but underlying conflict between the "federalists" and the "state housers," as well as the prospect of the supremacy of the latter faction at Washington, no matter who is elected, promises to redress the balance between the White House and the states after twenty years of executive centralization and usurpation.

Cooking School Session
Features Economical Meals

Large Attendance;
Final Program Tonite

Memorial Hall was filled to capacity Wednesday evening when 1100 persons attended the second session of the Gasco Food Institute entitled, "Bargain Day the Blue Flame Way."

The highlight of the second day's program was the performance of Fred Barthelmas, institute manager. He first appeared on stage and circulated through the audience garbed as a thin and spindly "Piggy Bank."

As the session continued, lecturer Enid Barthelmas, gave the "Piggy" the pennies she said she was saving by using economical recipes. Each time that happened the "Piggy Bank's" nose lit up. He ended the performance flatter and happier than when he came on stage.

Circleville homemakers will be urged to think of their own leisure and luxury during the third—and final—program of the Gasco Food Institute.

Starting at 8 p. m. tonight in Memorial Hall, the closing performance is titled, "Blue Flame Cooking 'Round the Year.'" Recipes and menus that are especially appropriate for each season of the year will be presented.

In true-to-life manner, homemakers here will be turning to foods and cooking ideas which benefit them personally only after they have established a stock of recipes and menus that have special appeal to other members of their families.

"Universally popular foods that win the favor of young, would-be westerners were shown during the opening performance. The second session covered recipes selected for their special appeal to the 'man of the house' because of their economical aspects," a spokesman for the sponsors said today.

Recipes scheduled for demonstration during the final program have two advantages, first, they may be prepared in a leisurely manner, freeing homemakers for an afternoon off and second, they give each homemaker a table a touch of luxury with what are actually economical meals.

Among foods items to be presented will be September ham, Mexican stuffed peppers, cherry snowballs, fruit tarts, apricot and fruit-syrup glazes, Summer fruit pizzelle, football cake, beef pinwheels, Spring sunshine cake and June wedding cake.

The Wednesday evening awards went as follows: Food baskets from Collins Food Market, Mrs. Robert Garrett, Circleville Route 4, Mrs. Robert Lovett, Circleville Route 4, Mrs. Lucille Imbler, Stoutsville, Mrs. Hattie Metzger, Kings-ton Route 1, Mrs. Herbert Kingward, 486 East Main street, Mrs. Pen Walker, Circleville Route 2, Mrs. Georgia Graham, Ashville Route 2, Mrs. Kathryn Huffer, 154 1/2 West Main street; cotton dress from G. Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

Before Christmas I deplored in this column the wide practice of having elementary school children prepare highly finished programs for parents preceding special holidays. I pointed out the frequent physical and nervous strain on the teacher preparing these programs; that many of the children participating did not get values commensurate with the time expended; and that many other children not in the program often were seriously neglected in the meanwhile. Then I added:

"What is still worse, the local P. T. A. expects to have this program provided by the school and brings pressures to this end; and the P. T. A. expects to see a highly finished program, something they will enjoy."

Came the following in a letter from the president of a P. T. A. in Kansas City, Kansas: "Our P.T.A.

has regarded your column with much interest and respect until tonight. The statements you made are not true in our school.

"Our feeling is, that the teachers expect to be asked to prepare the Christmas program. The programs they put on are taken from their pre-Christmas classroom work. In our school all children participate. The P.T.A. organization as a whole does not approve of exploiting children."

"I FEEL YOU SHOULD write another article in appreciation of the wonderful work these teachers are doing. Many a child learns the true meaning of Christmas through the preparation for a Christmas program."

"I hope you understand what I am trying to point out. In many cases it is the teacher who wants to give the program and not the grade. Since his teacher was musical, she was given a great deal of responsibility for coaching some older children for the Christmas program.

THIS MEANT she was out of the room the large part of each day. Naturally her classroom discipline deteriorated and she became more irritable as the double pressure increased."

"If only these programs could be informal, imperfect, spontaneous, creative, with funny little costumes, largely planned and executed by the children. Perhaps it is the parents who need educating, and the school will dare to put on such programs."

P.T.A. I feel you have been unfair to the P.T.A."

I wrote this mother to congratulate her school and P.T.A. on their wise procedure and the teachers on their fine contributions; and to apologize for my careless and too-sweeping statements. Instead of saying, "The local P.T.A.," I should have said, "Some local P.T.A.s."

The same mail brought a letter from another mother, who is a writer of considerable eminence, to approve that article of mine. To quote:

"I most thoroughly agree with you that the perfect school program for parents creates more trouble than it is worth. As an example, my son was in the second

Commercials More Exciting Than Programs

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(P)—A new form of exercise in the American home is getting up to answer the telephone only to discover it isn't your own phone ringing—it's the phone on a television program.

It gives you a sheepish feeling, but on the other hand it also gives a man a good excuse at least for not answering his own phone at all.

Television is credited with building up a national public for several political figures.

But this little view box can destroy as well as build. And isn't this already becoming evident?

The American people love a hero, but the glamor of a hero who talks too often and is seen too much soon wears thin. People weary of him. Part of the success of Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous fireside chats lay in the fact he didn't make one every day.

Are some statesmen already making the mistake of inviting themselves too often into American living rooms via the television screen?

It is a thought that must cost them considerable soul-searching because it is a long time between now and November. The political epitaph of some candidates may be this:

"I voted against him because I was just plain tired of seeing his face, and couldn't stand the idea of looking at it for another four years."

The trouble with using television as an electioneering medium is that even the wisest speaker, the most veteran campaigner, doesn't realize the point at which he may begin to bore more people than he interests.

Television is without doubt the greatest entertainment bargain since the free shows the Caesars put on in the Coliseum at Rome.

Mediocre as many of the programs are, the average man, whatever his interests or educational level, can find 10 to 15 hours of entertainment worth his attention.

The programs would be even better if as much time, talent and effort were put into them as are put into the commercials. That is why more and more thoughtful viewers prefer the artful and tuneful commercials to the drab programs that precede and follow them.

Maybe the answer is for the sponsors to concentrate even more on the commercials and drop the programs altogether.

My small god-daughter no longer looks at the programs. But she drops her toys and comes running to watch the commercials. They're more exciting.

Much has been written about the effect of television on children. But how about exploring its impact on housewives and household pets.

My own wife, for example, hasn't darned a pair of socks or sewn a button on my clothes since our set arrived.

"I've got TV eyes," she explains. "Just can't see to thread a needle any more."

As to household pets, a friend of mine who owns a cat had to give up television in her home altogether.

"I had to choose between it and my cat," she said. "My cat was jealous. Everytime I turned on television she attacked the set and tried to scratch it to death."

On the other hand I have heard of another lady whose cat likes to sit and stare at the television set all day. Doesn't care about any particular program, but wanders about the house, restless and unhappy, until the set is switched back on.

I have also been told about a dog that whines unless the video screen is tuned to a western movie.

"The only way I can figure it out is that he is a city dog," said the owner, "and it is only by looking at western movies that he ever gets to see trees."

What's Your Notion of Magnificent Motion?

WE'LL admit that we're taking in a lot of territory when we use a word with the definition shown above.

But no lesser term can do justice to all the things that make a Buick such a joy to drive and to own.

Splendor and sumptuous adornment you'll certainly find in its rich interior—grandeur you'll certainly find in the mighty flow of its power.

But all this is only background for what is accurately termed its Million Dollar Ride.

Yes, sir, magnificent is the word for this majestic beauty in motion.

There's an earth-hugging, mile-skimming feel to it, as it bullets along the highway.

It holds a straight course without weave—seems to snug down to the road on curves.

A massive X-braced frame gives it solidity. A torque-tube firms its keel. End-sway and side-roll are neutralized. The engine is Hi-Poised mounted on rubber pillows—and big, soft-acting coil springs on all four wheels soak up the jars and jolts, float you over road-ripples, "washboard gravel" or weather-pocked macadam as if they weren't there.

Even its Dynaflo Drive* contributes to the smoothness of its forward motion by cushioning the transmission of its power.

How about taking one of this year's Buicks—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—on a cruise of discovery all your own?

Touch off its Fireball 8 Engine that's a gas-saving high-compression valve-in-head—head it out for the roads you know by past experience—and let it speak for itself. Even the price tag is eloquent proof that this is the car for you.

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

THE AAA MARKS 50 YEARS OF SERVICE TO MOTORISTS

By FRED HIFT
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—If you think big-city parking today has developed into a real problem, you have nothing on those hardy pioneer motorists during the early part of the century who wheezed and cluttered down the street, ever afraid of frightening a horse or getting stuck.

The only difference is that in those days, with the high spirit of the adventurer in them, motorists got together. Vexed by the refusal of the stable proprietors to take in their horseless buggies, they formed the American Automobile association where the lack of parking facilities and other common problems could be explored.

The AAA was born in Chicago one March day in 1902, just 50 years ago, combining the nine auto clubs then in existence. Its stated purposes, among other things, were to develop and introduce the automobile, improve public highways and protect the legal rights of users of motor vehicles.

"Get a horse!" and "Get out and get under!" days have changed...

THESE were trying days indeed for the men of the horseless carriage. Quite apart from the fact that their noisy contraptions were anything but safe and had a tendency to break down or turn turtle at the worst moment, roads were generally very poor—there were only 143 miles of paved surface in the whole country in 1902—and the attitude of the public towards the venturesome travelers could be described best as "antagonistic."

People didn't have much faith in the future of the automobile. Andrew Carnegie for one thought it had been perfected to such a degree that it was almost impossible to see how it could be improved further. Cars and drivers were habitually and cruelly ridiculed with cries of "Get a horse."

If vast changes have taken place on the American scene during the past half century, a good many of them can be attributed directly to the efforts of the AAA which grew up with and for the motor car.

When the club was formed, there were some 23,000 vehicles in use. Today more than 52,000,000 licensed cars of all kinds are on the roads. The AAA boasts a membership of 3,500,000 and, with over 700 clubs and affiliated branches in the United States, Hawaii, Panama, Puerto Rico and the Philippines, has grown into the world's largest motoring federation.

MANY of its original aims still hold true. Apart from its emergency road service—AAA comes to the rescue of stranded motorists at the rate of one every ten seconds—the club is an active and potent force in the betterment of highways, the fight against tolls and special auto taxes, and the initiation of safety programs.

During any one recent year, the AAA has produced and distributed some 2,000,000 tour books, accommodation and emergency service directories; more than 6,000,000 state, regional and special maps, and 30,000,000 of its detailed strip maps.

In the early days, AAA members got together more or less on a social basis, to exchange information, relate their experiences and swap helpful hints. Today the club represents a highly efficient, smoothly-run organization devoted entirely to the convenience and the interest of the motorist. It no longer depends on members calling in stray reports on paving or other projects necessitating a detour.

BECAUSE there is strength in numbers, the AAA now has a voice in legislation affecting the motorists. It wasn't always that way.

Farmers in the early days particularly disliked the rattling mechanical monsters that came storming down the dusty roads at ten and even 15 miles an hour.

One community drew up a list of ordinances including one providing that a driver, when approaching a turn, toot his horn, ring a bell, fire a revolver and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

Should, after all these preparations, a horse refuse to pass an automobile, the driver was instructed to "take the machine apart as rapidly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass."

Although cars have grown to the point where their total horsepower represents 85 per cent of the horsepower of the nation, their final shape and form is still not determined.

April Named By Mayor For Conservation

First proclamation issued by the office of Mayor Ed Amey has called upon residents of this city to observe April as "Circleville conservation month."

The mayor's proclamation urges local schools, service and civic groups to join in a tree-planting campaign here next month.

Later information concerning where and how to plant the trees is to be supplied by County Extension Agent Larry Best, chairman of Pickaway County's reforestation program.

Text of Mayor Amey's conservation proclamation follows:

"WHEREAS, THE future sound economy of our great city is largely dependent upon the adequacy of our natural resources, and

"Whereas, today we are faced with the compelling fact that each renewable resource, whether forest or animal life, whether productive soil or the water which sustains them, is dependent upon one or more of the other, and

"Whereas, if man creates a scarcity of one by over-consumption, without thought or effort of restoration, he disturbs the proper balance which directly affects all the others, and

"Whereas, the time is here when action must supplant mere words in our efforts to maintain and restore our rapidly diminishing forests which are vital to our future welfare and prosperity, and

"Whereas, the responsibility for a successful program of conservation and reforestation is individual as well as group, and with the active interest of the citizens of our city—young and old—thousands of trees can be planted in observance of conservation month.

"Now, therefore, I, Edward M. Amey, Mayor, do hereby proclaim April, 1952, as Circleville conservation month, and I do call upon superintendents, teachers and officials of school systems, civic, industrial, and farm organizations, garden, forestry and conservation clubs, youth groups, religious leaders, and the citizenry of Circleville to prepare and assume leadership for the planting of trees during Circleville conservation month."

WORLD RECORD BURGLARY, AND HOW IT FIZZLED

First break was when Mrs. Leona Mae Giordano, 30, tried to get a "hot" $1,000 bill changed in a Reno gambling house. She said a "handsome man" gave it to her. "They really got nothing on me," she stated. But they found $9,100 of Redfield money on her in Los Angeles later.

Mrs. Marie Jeanne D'Arc Michaud, 36, gambling casino friend of the Redfields, admitted being the "brains" of the burglary. She had been a Redfield house guest. After being taken off a train in Flagstaff, Ariz., she tried to kill herself with sleeping pills. Police found $50,000 Redfield cash on her.

The Redfield mansion in Reno, Redfield was downtown gambling when the burglar gang sneaked in, fed the watchdog a bone and carted away the safe containing $1,500,000 in cash, jewelry, securities. They looted it not far away.

Police found $37,000 hidden in chair as they arrested Benton Henry Robinson, 65, handyman at a dude ranch near Reno. "Redfield money," he said.

Louis (Fip) Anthony Gazzigli, 44, gli, 41, Reno casino "bounce-gambling house" ex-fighter, maintenance man, was first arrested. He is to "sing." He led the police to $27,000.

Police found the 500-pound safe March 16 in a 35-foot-deep abandoned mine shaft on property of Redfield's. "Not a nickel in it," they said.

IT WAS THE OLD, old story of someone trying to spend the loot that put the law on the right track in solving the world record burglary, theft of the LeVere Redfield safe in Reno, Nev., on Feb. 29. Mae Giordano tried to cash a $1,000 bill, was questioned, said a "handsome man from Milwaukee" gave it to her. The trail led to three arrests there. The others followed quickly. Hardest story of all to swallow was that of Mrs. Jeanne Michaud, admitted "caser" of the job. She told police she wanted to get Redfield's money in circulation. Well, who wouldn't like to help get $1,500,000 in circulation. (International)

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Retail egg prices advanced a little in many stores this week. But they went down a few cents a pound.

Except for scattered declines in fryer and broiler chickens, beef rib and chuck roasts and a few other items, meats held about steady.

Fresh produce also was generally unchanged, although some large marketing sections posted slightly higher prices for best green beans, cabbage, celery, good lettuce, peppers, tomatoes and tangerines.

Retail markups on eggs amounted to two to four cents a dozen and were attributed mostly to heavier military buying and shipment delays resulting from storms in the Midwest last weekend.

Widespread reductions in butter prices reflected continued consumer price resistance, according to wholesalers in New York.

FRYING AND broiling chickens were high on the list of advertised specials of many stores for the coming weekend. Supplies were large and were expected to increase even more in coming weeks.

Turkeys also were in heavy supply. Turkey hatcheries reporting to the government produced nearly 60 per cent more gobblers last month than a year earlier, and at the beginning of this month had 30 per cent more turkey eggs in incubators than a year ago.

Foods to be featured this week-end by most stores included these most frequently:

Chuck, rib and pot roast, leg and rump of veal, leg of lamb, lamb chops, fresh or smoked pork shoulder, hams, pork loins, round steak, several varieties of fresh and frozen fish, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, pascal celery, and citrus fruits.

The Agriculture Department's list of most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week included cabbage, cottage cheese and fish.

Wholesale food prices dipped this week to the same average level as that of mid-October of 1950, according to the Dun & Bradstreet food index. Totalling up the wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 widely-used foods, the business reporting firm found the index at $6.48 this week compared with $6.54 last week, and $7.21 a year ago. It had not been lower since it touched $6.41 on July 18, 1950.

New Rulings On Basketball Seen Coming

Stalling And Cheap Fouls Slated To Be Curtailed

SEATTLE, March 27.—Basketball's rules doctors were to operate Thursday on late-game stalling and cheap fouls—and in the opinion of most coaches who watched a trial run Wednesday night it should be major surgery.

It seemed certain that the rules body — the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada — would come up with something along the line of Wednesday night's experiment in the Illinois-Santa Clara consolation game at the NCAA championships, won by the Illini, 67-64.

Briefly, here were the changes tried:

1. All foul shots had to be taken. Present rules permit a fouled team to take the ball out of bounds and retain possession, instead of shooting.

2. A second shot was awarded when the first was missed on any foul, either defensive or offensive, up to the final three minutes.

3. In the final three minutes, every foul was considered intentional and worth two shots.

THE BALL remained in play if the last foul shot was missed. It went to the opposing team if the toss was made.

Harry A. Combes, coach of the Big Ten champs from Illinois, called the changes "very fine." He added:

"They had a lot of merit from the spectators standpoint and took the pressure off the officials. We experimented with the same rule in the Big Ten two years ago and liked it."

The major dissenter was Santa Clara's coach, Bobbe Feerick, who thought the idea would increase, rather than curtail, stalling.

He said a team ahead, knowing it would get two shots in the closing minutes, would invite fouls by hanging onto the ball. That's what his team tried to do, and failed, with the score 58-58 at the three-minute mark.

However, the National Association of Basketball Coaches went resoundingly on record, 45-5, Wednesday in favor of banning the waiver of foul shots. They sent this recommendation along to the National Rules Committee.

Three rule revisions were voted Wednesday:

Use of non-leather balls was approved if both teams agree. Boundary lines of any thickness will be allowed and foul lanes and center jump circles may be of solid colors. And ceilings in new gymnasiums must be a minimum of 22 feet in height.

Oldest harness race in the world is the Transylvania, a trotting stake which has been raced annually in Lexington, Ky., since 1889.

Davey Scores TKO In 5th Round Over Ike

CHICAGO, March 27.—After it was all over you would expect the winning fighter to say: "I murdered the guy."

Instead you heard Chuck Davey orate: "I'm glad the referee stopped it because I would hate to have to see such a great former champion as Ike Williams knocked unconscious."

Blinky Palermo, Ike's manager whose license in Illinois has been suspended pending a probe of a police record, hovered over his has-been like a mother hen.

"We didn't take Davey seriously enough," Blinky repeated. "Ike would like one more fight."

Davey remained undefeated through 32 professional bouts by scoring a fifth round technical knockout over Williams in the televised scheduled 10 rounder Wednesday night.

Davey's southpaw style appeared to fluster Williams—a veteran who shouldn't be bewildered by it after beating 10 porters in the past.

Individual Play Dominating ABC

MILWAUKEE, March 27.—Standings took a juggling Wednesday in the American Bowling Congress tournament, with individuals again playing the leading role rather than five-man teams.

Basil Burchett, 46, a theatre manager in White Pigeon, Mich., provided the major thrill by slamming 674 for second place in the singles.

A 168-average kegler, Burchett came up with games of 231, 200 and 243. A missed No. 4 pin in the last frame of his second game kept him out of first place, which is held by Joe Plasky, Lincoln Park, Mich., with 676.

Segura Defeats Kovacs In Meet

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—Little Pancho Segura handed bulky Frank Kovacs a 6-2, 6-3 trimming Wednesday night in the masters pro tennis tournament.

Dick Gonzales defeated Jack Kramer, 6-4, 6-4, in the second match. Gonzales has won four straight, and Segura three of four. Segura said he feels his play is improving and he still has a chance for the top prize of $3,000 in the $10,000 double round robin event.

Yonkers Ready For Race Meet

YONKERS, N. Y., March 27.—Yonkers Raceway has announced that its harness track will open next Tuesday for the final training of horses arriving for the April 15-May 24 spring meeting.

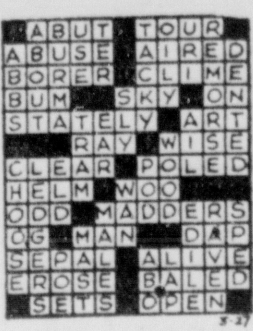

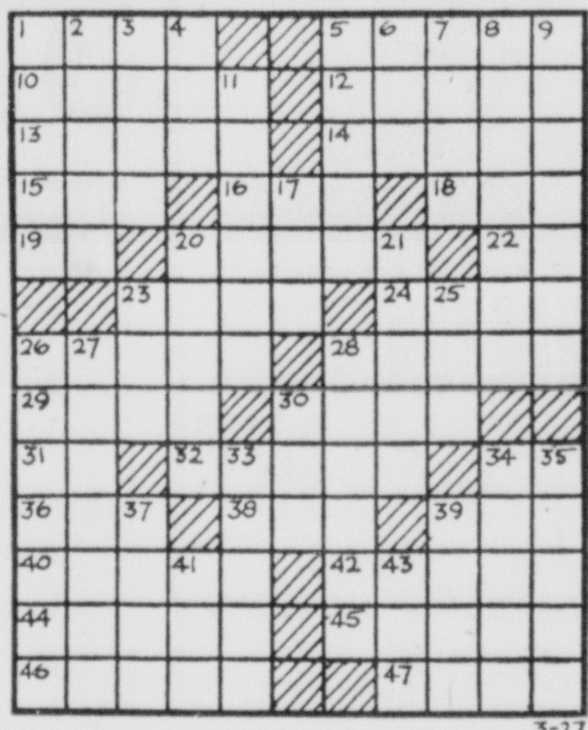

The half-mile oval was resurfaced during the winter.

During the 1958 baseball season the Cleveland Indians drew 1,240,891 fans to 26 night games, an average of 47,720.

One interesting phase of the Lattimore testimony is his relationship to American policy. He denies that he has influenced the United States policy in the Far East.

Yet, his testimony, as Senator McCarran states, shows that he exercised a very potent influence. This is the Senator's statement:

"... Mr. Lattimore's testimony is significant with respect to the facts. He testified that he wrote a letter to the President of the United States, in 1945, making certain statements with regard to conditions in the Far East, and urging a review of United States Foreign Policy with respect to the Far East, from which review then top officials of the State Department should be excluded."

"Mr. Lattimore testified that he saw the President personally, and left with him memoranda suggesting certain courses of action with respect to Japan and China; and that these memoranda included a recommendation for giving a larger measure of high authority to officials with China backgrounds."

"Soon thereafter, according to Mr. Lattimore's own testimony, he and then top officials of the State Department were replaced, including Ambassador Grew."

"Further, the number and importance of top jobs in the State Department, held by persons with China backgrounds, was increased."

Finally this witness testified that the policy advocated, shortly thereafter, in the so-called 'Directive' of December 15, 1945, on China policy, and which our government sought to carry out in China, was substantially the same as the policy outlined in Mr. Lattimore's memoranda with respect to China; and that the policy adopted by the United States, with respect to Japan, was substantially the same as the policy with respect to Japan outlined in Mr. Lattimore's memoranda."

New Basketball Test Is Slated

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—Occidental College and Los Angeles State will play a basketball game here Thursday night in which the object is to score 64 points, instead of beating the opposition within the prescribed time limit.

The innovation, the brain child of Los Angeles State Coach Sax Elliott, is designed to remedy last quarter stalling and fouling tactics.

Elliott made a survey of the scores registered by 20 leading teams and found 64 points to be the average winning score. When the leading team hits 16, 32 and 48 points, it will mark the end of the first, second and third quarters.

Wide Corn Rows May Answer Long-Standing Farm Poser

Grass Crop In Corn Stand Said Possible

Big Drawback Is Lack Of Machinery

Wide corn rows may be the answer to a problem which has long stymied farmers and research men—how to successfully establish a legume, grass, or small grain in corn.

According to experts local farmers may at last have a practical means of covering up corn ground during the six months it is idle and exposed to freezing, thawing and water runoff.

There are other advantages which can contribute directly to income:

(1) Cover crops—if legumes—catch and deposit in your soil the most vital of all plant foods, nitrogen. A cover crop can supply as much as half to three-fourths of the extra nitrogen needed to produce a good corn crop!

(2) A cover crop on corn ground—plowed down the following Spring—provides spongelike organic material. This helps tide the next crop over a summer dry spell and improves soil tilth.

(3) For livestock farmers there is a good chance for extra pasture. Corn left behind the picker is far from a balanced ration, but no one wants to waste it. With legume roughage at hand, cattle will balance their ration.

(4) Of great advantage, also, the grass or legume seedling in corn can be used to develop a full-scale pasture crop the next year.

CURRENT INTEREST in cover crops is based on the rather recent discovery of hybrid corn and increased fertility. Together, these discoveries have increased fertility so corn rows can be widened from

Anti-TB Pill Price Slashed In Half

NEW YORK, March 27—A manufacturer of the new anti-tuberculosis pills says they will cost hospitals 2½ cents apiece—about half the price estimated when they were first announced.

Millions of tablets of the drug, nicotinamide hydrazide, have been given to hospitals for experimental use, but so far none has actually gone on sale.

Water Fund Lost

COLUMBUS, March 27—A bill to create a $25,000,000 fund for water pollution control. The federal House has eliminated state grants beginning July 1. If the Senate takes the same action states will have to provide all the money. Ohio already uses about $30,000 each year in addition to federal money.

White Tires OK'd

AKRON, March 27—There is a big backlog of demand for white sidewall tires. Some rubber industry spokesmen said companies started making white sidewalls again for the first time in 13 months, as soon as the government announced Wednesday production could resume.

the traditional 40 inches to as much as 60, 70 or even 80 inches without much loss in corn yield.

Experiments prove it is possible to raise 100-bushel-an-acre corn, in an average season, with corn rows spaced 60 to 70 inches apart when interplanted with a cover crop.

Biggest drawback to cover crops at present is the lack of adequate machinery. But with corn farmers, experiment station research men, hybrid-corn breeders, and farm-machinery engineers working together—profitable cover crops can be made a reality in remarkably few years.

Manufacturing Is Top Wage Group Here

Manufacturing gave Pickaway Countians their largest single source of revenue during the third quarter of last year.

According to a report by the Ohio employment service, 1,468 persons employed by county manufacturing concerns took home $1,111,451 in salaries during the third quarter of 1951.

However, the report does not include the number of persons engaged in farming or their salaries, which might be expected to top the manufacturing total.

Next high to manufacturing during the period, according to the report, was wholesale and retail trade, where 928 employees earned salaries totalling $464,910.

In all, a total of $2,098,724 in wages were paid to the 3,605 Pickaway Countians working under the Ohio unemployment compensation law.

IN THE STATE as a whole, employment and payroll covered by the unemployment compensation law again surpassed all previous records during the third quarter.

Figures compiled by the bureau's division of research and statistics show 2,394,000 workers covered in September of 1951 and payrolls totalling $2,139 billion during the third quarter of 1951, exceeding the figures for the corresponding periods of 1950 by five and sixteen percent respectively.

Pointing out that manufacturing payrolls were greater than in any previous third quarter, officials said that all-time peaks in covered employment and payrolls during the third quarter of 1951 were noted in the construction, utilities, and service industries.

September and third quarter reords in employment and payrolls were also established in trade, finance, insurance, and real estate.
